GENERAL SECRETARY 5 OCT. 1934

General Secretary.

The people of Nyamanahalli in Hole-Narsipur Taluk represented to me that the system of "Monday labour" was in force in the village, as a result of which their village was kept neat and tidy. They requested that the levy of house-tax from them may be waived.

Similar requests were made to me in many other villages during my tour in Hassan and Tumkur Districts. I think that they call for consideration especially in the case of those villages where the people are following the system of weekly labour. The house-tax is, after all, inappreciable in amount and if its recovery is waived, it will, I believe, be an inducement to the ryots to keep their villages clean. It makes little difference whether they pay in kind or coin. I have accordingly issued general instructions to the Deputy Commissioners of these Districts to waive the recovery of the house-tax in those villages in which the people come forward to contribute in labour towards the execution of village improvement works.

Section 36 of the V.P Regn makes the levy of house tax Obligatory and it provides only for the grant of exemptions from payment of the tax to be allowed under rules framed in this behalf These exemptions are now allowed in the case of Govt buildings, charitable institutions &c.

This Section does not, however, permit of commutation of the tax into labour, which is allowed only in the case of Optional taxes under the proviso to Section 37 of the Regn, and it seems doubtful whether the power to exempt given in the former provision can be interpreted as enabling the commutation also.

The Law Section may be consulted.
